Halo May Cry

It was Chaos at the planet Tibet. The covenant had found it and was making an evasion over the entire planet. There was one Spartan on that planet. It was Spartan 118. His name was Christian but he was also known as Redagger.

Banshees were patrolling the sunset sky. Redagger was hiding behind a rock. He was waiting for the best possible moment to sprint to Fort Olympus. All of a sudden the banshees had retreated. "Now" Redagger thought to himself. He started to sprint to the base. It was a 30mile sprint from here. It would take a normal human 4 hours to finish a 30mile sprint, but for a Spartan it would only take an hour. Christian sprinted as fast as he could run. Two large red blips showed up on his fiend-or-foe meter. He turned his head around. It was two Covenant Banshees on his tail. Christian knew he couldn't out run them. He needed a plan. The first Banshee started to shoot. Christian started to maneuver away from the plasma fire so he wouldn't get shot. All of a sudden Christian vision turned all blue. He couldn't make a thing. Then his vision started to clear. He looked at his shield stats. It was down to 50. " I need to take cover" thought Christian. He looked around at his surrounding slowly. He didn't want to trip on anything. He then spotted a forest. It was full of tall trees. Their leaves were long and broad. He could take cover there. He changed his course and started to head for the trees. As soon as he got there he hid behind a tree. The Covenant Banshees slowed their speed and circled around the forest. Christian would have to slow his pace so they wouldn't notice him. " If only my suit was green. Then I would be camouflage and could move at a faster pace. Why did I pick red" thought Redagger. Christian was a mile away from the base. He would have to sprint now or later. " Hmm. Maybe I can cause a distraction" said redagger. He quickly dispatch a grenade from his grenade built and threw it from the opposite direction from where he was. It had gone far. It bounce and exploded. He threw another grenade at the same direction. It to had bounced and exploded. Now there was a big huff of smoke from that direction. The two Banshees flew to where the grenade had exploded. It had work. The banshees were flying in circles around the smoke. Christian started to sprint. He was running way faster than he had before. He then saw the base. The entrance was guarded with a person with rocket launcher on each side, and a stationary gun on top of the entrance. " Sir, may I please have some identification sir?" said the marine on the stationary gun. " Spartan 158 a.k.a Redagger" said Christian. " Alright let him in," said the marine in the Stationary gun. Then the gate opened like a doorway. " We've been expecting you Spartan 118" said a Corporal.
